SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

As the year wanes the people who have the best interests of the country at heart are looking anxiously forward to November. They want to bring about a change in conditions. They know that an all-wise God has provided bountiful crops for the United States; that the mines of the country are laden with wealth in copper, zinc, iron, gold and silver; they know that fat cattle are grazing on the finest pastures in the world, but they also know that there are hundreds of thousands of wage earners in the country out of employment. The fathers, brothers and sons of these United States believe in protecting their homes and families, but they believe that the ballot is the best means of securing the necessary protection.

They endorse the views of William Jennings Bryan and of John W. Kern; they endorse the Democratic platform adopted at Denver; they stand for a vigorous tariff reform; for a fight against the encroachments of the railroads and other trusts.

In Indiana Tom Marshall will lead the Democratic hosts to victory. In New York the rank and file of the Republicans will aid in defeating Gov. Hughes for re-election. In Illinois, and in fact in every doubtful State, there can be no doubt about the victories in store for Democrats.

Kentucky will line up with the solid South as usual, and on the day after election Taft, Sherman and Hitchcock will be unusually busy telling what happened to them and how it occurred.

SEES THE LIGHT.

It does our dissenting brethren a world of good to mix with the Catholic clergy and to hear an occasional Catholic sermon. Rev. Charles D. Kellogg, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Sandy Hill, N. Y., writes a very interesting letter to the Sandy Hill Herald from Boston. In the first paragraph the reverend gentleman pays a fine tribute to Archbishop O'Connell, and makes some candid admissions regarding the Archbishop's criticism of modern Protestantism. That portion of Mr. Kellogg's letter to which we refer is as follows:

"As the local papers state that I am spending my vacation in the city of Boston, I may admit that I was in that famous town last Sunday, and possibly may bring to the attention of your readers some items of interest that I gathered during my brief sojourn. The day was of especial importance to our Roman Catholic brethren in connection with the great Federation movement. Archbishop O'Connell is one of the strong men of New England, a grand type of the noblest Christian manhood. He preached the sermon in the Cathedral, and set forth some vital truths that all Protestants will do well carefully and thoughtfully to consider. Among these is the undisputed fact that we are not succeeding in retaining the interest of the men in the services of the church in any degree to compare with our brethren of the Roman Catholic church. That we are not paying the same deference to the inspired Scriptures as are they. That whilst in a former day the Bible among many of our number was a fetish, it is now a fable. And as a still more solemn and alarming fact of the times, we are not extending to our boys and girls the influence in our schools of a moral and religious education. That we are teaching them everything about science and nothing about God. These constitute the leading points in the eloquent indictment of the Archbishop, to which your correspondent is convinced it would be wise for the Protestant world to take heed."

TO BE ENCOURAGED.

The Catholic Federation has accomplished a great deal, although many people are slow to realize it. The Federation has drawn forth favorable criticisms from the able, intelligent and public spirited people of all classes. The Boston Herald at the recent convention of the Federation of Catholic Societies:

"The cause of civic reform in many communities has received valuable assistance from the Catholic clergy of late. Unhappy conditions, such as those which have aroused the protesting indignation of Archbishop O'Connell and others in Boston, have existed in many other cities. Corruption and inefficiency in public service have not been a matter of mere and cruel. But it is a fact that designing and unscrupulous politicians, seeking office for selfish purposes, have traded upon the natural bonds of race and faith for their own personal advantage. Having gained office and opportunity, they have betrayed not only the public trust, but the honor and name of church and race of which, by reason of their public station, they claimed to be representatives before the world. There are no parallel lines of religious faith and politics in this country. The Catholic church owes no greater duty to the cause of good government than does the church organization of any other denomination. Betrayers of the public trust, of whatever faith, are misrepresentative of their religious creed, which, in its application to civic relations, requires faithful rendering unto Caesar of the things which are Caesar's. The demand of the Archbishop that the men of the Catholic church align themselves by the highest standard of honesty and integrity and tolerate no Catholic man in public office who by his acts brings shame and dishonor to his church and her teachings is not a new inspiration as to religious duty. It is as old as the church itself, and it applies to the church in whatever form wherever allegiance is claimed to the Christian faith."

When daily and non-religious papers have such good words, the Catholic press certainly ought to encourage and foster the cause of federation.

SOUND ADVICE.

Three hundred teaching nuns of the archdiocese of St. Louis assembled in that city last week for their annual institute. The principal address was delivered by Archbishop Glennon. Among other things he said: "Don't be afraid to be advertised. Be up to date. Let the world know what you are doing." The same advice might be given to Catholic teachers in every diocese.

WILL CELEBRATE.

Mackin Council Reaches Fifteenth Anniversary of Establishment.

Four new members were elected by Mackin Council Tuesday night and three applications were received. President Robert T. Burke occupied the chair, and the attendance was excellent. Bernard Reeketewald and John L. Behrndt, who were on the sick list, were reported improving, while D. J. Hammill, V. J. Bohm and O. Schaeffer were reported quite ill.

Next Thursday night Mackin Council will give an entertainment, and Hon. Edward J. McDermett will deliver the principal address. The event will be in celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the establishment of the council, and all members and their lady friends are invited to attend. The committee in charge hopes that 100 applicants will be presented on that night, and urges its hustlers to make additional efforts to bring in new members.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the new electric lights were used for the first time, and gave great satisfaction. Thomas F. Bachmann, Adolph Andriott, Patrick Duddy and Joseph J. Hancock were appointed to confer with a similar committee from Trinity Council to consider the advisability of a baseball contest between the two councils.

HILL OF TARA TO BE EXPLORED.

The Hill of Tara, which was once the seat of the high kings of Ireland, is to be excavated and thoroughly explored under the direction of a joint committee of the Royal Society of Antiquaries, the Royal Irish Academy, the Archaeological Societies of Dublin and the Literary Societies of Dublin and London. Several proposals to explore the hill in the past have been defeated on account of the outbreak of public indignation at what, it was felt, was a proposal to destroy one of Ireland's historic monuments, but it is promised now that the exploration shall be carried out in a thoroughly scientific manner, and that neither the appearance nor the fabric of the hill will be destroyed. It is hoped that a great mass of objects of archaeological and historical interest will be unearthed. Many of the best examples of ancient Irish ornaments and jewelry have been found in the vicinity of Tara.

Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Welch and Margaret Short, all of Belmont, spent the present week with friends at Elizabethtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Malone and children, who were visiting relatives in Jeffersonville, have returned to their home in Montgomery, Ala.

A pretty baby girl has arrived at the home of John Ridge, 1140 Overhill street. This is the third girl, and Papa John is correspondingly elated.

Misses Madge and Nell Conniff, who have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Charles M. Elliott, at Bardstown, are to return next week.

The newest slippers are made of furniture brocades, tapestries and fabrics.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is preparing to entertain its visitors in true Kentucky style.

Division 2 held a well attended meeting Friday night and the usual routine business was transacted.

The Rev. Father John R. Moran, of Youngstown, has been chosen to succeed himself as State Chaplain in Ohio.

Division 1 showed its appreciation of the efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary by attending their lawn fete in body.

Division 9 of St. Paul, Minn., entertained the ladies of Division 2, Ladies' Auxiliary, last week with a card party and dance.

A good attendance was on hand at Division 3's meeting Thursday night, and reports on arrangements for the State convention were made.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary are urged to attend the special meeting next Friday night at the residence of Miss Mary Corcoran.

The ladies of Division 9, Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Paul, presented Miss Nellie McCall with a seal ring to show their appreciation of her activity in organizing the division.

Division 4 has been called in special session on Sunday afternoon, September 13. This will take the place of the regular meeting which would have been held on the following night.

Thirty-eight of the eighty-eight counties in Ohio have divisions, while the military branch has seven companies in the State. The present State officers promise to prosecute a vigorous campaign for new members.

The late Maurice F. Willheis, former National President of the order, in his will left $1,000 to help provide a home for aged and indigent members, and another $4,000 to John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish party in Parliament.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Illinois elected the following State officers in their State convention at Springfield: State President, Mrs. Mary McWhorter, Chicago; Vice President, Mrs. Margaret Mooney, East St. Louis; Secretary, Mrs. Anna Colfeld, Joliet; Treasurer, Mrs. Annie E. Johnson, Chicago.

RECENT DEATHS.

Miss Sallie Hurley, an estimable young matron of the West End, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bahroff, Monday morning. The funeral took place from St. Patrick's church Wednesday morning.

Miss Margaret O'Connell, fifteen years old, died at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Garvey, 323 Brook street, Saturday morning. The deceased was a most lovable girl, and her funeral, which took place from St. Michael's church Monday morning, was attended by a large circle of sorrowing friends.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Dowd, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hinnelton, 1814 West Walnut street, last Saturday, took place from Sacred Heart church Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Dowd was well known and highly respected in the western part of the city, where she had long resided.

Mrs. Cecilia J. Horan, a venerable member of St. Patrick's congregation, died at the home of her son, Thomas J. Horan, 1827 Portland avenue, last Saturday morning. She had been ill two months. The deceased was highly esteemed by all who knew her. The funeral took place from St. Patrick's church Monday morning.

John Hallinan, Sr., seventy-four years old, died at the family residence, 2124 Portland avenue, early Monday morning, and his funeral took place from St. Cecilia's church Wednesday morning. The deceased was no old and respected citizen of the West End. His wife and the following children survive: Thomas Hallinan, of San Francisco; John P. Hallinan, of New York; Mrs. Larkin Adams, Mrs. Patrick Giltnane and Miss Mary Hallinan, all of this city, and two brothers, Thomas and Robert Hallinan, also of Louisville.

William Baldwin, an old and respected resident of the West End, died at his home, 1724 West Chestnut street, Friday afternoon of last week. Mr. Baldwin came to Louisville from Ireland fifty years ago, and was a successful contracting plasterer. His wife and the following children survive: J. R. Baldwin, State representative of the American Tobacco Company; D. A. Baldwin, of St. Louis; Mrs. W. C. Wuersch and Misses Ella and Mary Baldwin, of Louisville. The funeral took place from the Sacred Heart church Monday morning.

The funeral of Edward J. Crowley, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Katherine Mellett, 921 Duane street, last Saturday, took place from St. Louis' Bertrand's church Monday morning. The deceased was born in Ireland seventy-six years ago, but had followed the trade of plasterer and bricklayer in Louisville fifty-three years. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. Bridget Logan, of St. Louis; Mrs. Julia Cunningham, of Cleo; Mrs. Annie Lewellyn, of New York City; Mrs. Josie Marshall, Mrs. Katherine Mellett and Edward Crowley, Jr.

OPEN'S OFFICE.

Len S. Merimee, who was appointed Magistrate last week by Gov. Willson, has opened an office at 866 East Market street, and is now dealing out justice to all patrons of his court.

HOPKINS THEATER.

It was with pleasure that the amusement loving people of Louisville learned this week that Edward H. Dustin was to remain at the head of the Hopkins Theater. Under his able management the motion pictures have not been idle a day during the whole summer, and Mr. Dustin announces that the pictures will continue without a break during the remainder of the summer, fall and winter. The Crawford films have proved very popular in Louisville, as has been attested by the large attendance during the exhibitions in Louisville.

PULL FOR THE COLONELS.

Every man, woman and child interested in the progress of Louisville ought to be at the ball park this afternoon and tomorrow to cheer Jimmy Burke and his Colonels to victory in their contests against the Indianapolis team. The Colonels have made a hard fight, and their work has only emphasized what the Kentucky Irish American has said all along, a winning ball team is the best advertisement the city could have. The Colonels have returned home in first place and all Louisville should pull to keep them until they land the pennant. The public is pleased with the management of the club under the regime of Messrs. Barker and Chivatton, and at no time in the history of the game have been so popular in Louisville.

TRAINED MISSIONARIES.

The Paulist Fathers have established a missionary band at Stoneville, Mass. All of the priests are sons of the diocese of Springfield and are trained in missionary work.

NEARING CLOSE.

Beginning Monday only one more week remains of the seventh session of the Catholic Summer School at Cliff Haven. The school has been more than ordinarily successful thus year.

PLAY FOR CHARITY.

Metaphis has a splendid city baseball league. Quite a friendly rivalry exists between the Y. M. I. team and the Dan Sheas'. These teams will play a game for charity's sake on September 19.

OUT OF SEASON.

"What are you playing, children?" asked mother.

"We're playing church. I'm the choir, and Ruth is the congregation and Tommy's the organist."

"But who's the minister?"

"Why, mother! We don't have any. It's summer, and all the ministers are in Europe."

Several valuable pearls have been found in the rivers near Strabane, County Tyrone.

Tenants on the Hawkshaw property, County Louth, are about to sign purchase agreements.

Fire destroyed a quantity of hay on the premises of John Byrne, County Louth, but the barns were saved from destruction.

Only the aged persons who have no farms and no children to look after them will receive the benefit of the old age pension act.

Sister Mary Borgha Hurley, of the Mercy Convent, Kinsdale, County Cork, is dead. She had been a nun for more than half a century.

Mrs. Mary McGeechan, of Brochagh, County Donegal, has celebrated her 100th birthday. She has never been further than ten miles from home.

John Donahue's public house at Clones burned to the ground and three of the Donahue family were rescued from the flames with difficulty.

Patrick McCaul, eighty-five years old, and who had returned from the United States to take up his old holdings near Ballytrain, died at the hospital in Carrickmacross.

Sister Mary Doyle, of the convent of the Sisters of Charity, Merrion, near Dublin, walked in her sleep to a pond on the grounds and was drowned. She had been a victim of somnambulism for months.

Edward Bailey, twenty-three years old, was run over by a train near Dunleer, and his injuries were so severe that he died at the Drogheda hospital on the following day. He is survived by an aged father and mother.

William Moore, a farm laborer at Limavady, County Derry, became entangled in a coil of rope and was pulled from a haystack. His fall resulted in concussion of the brain, and at last accounts fears for his recovery were entertained.

Michael Garthun, of Dromiskin, fell beneath this platform and the steps of a carriage in attempting to alight from a train at Castlebellingham station. One of his legs was badly fractured, and the unfortunate man was removed to the Louth infirmary.

Miss Florence Manley, twenty-two years old, and her brother, Fred Manley, eight years of age, were drowned in the river near Clones. Miss Manley was employed as a stenographer in Dublin, and came home on vacation. She had purchased a toy boat for her brother, and he in attempting to sail it fell into the river. Miss Manley was drowned in attempting to rescue the boy.
